

CV/Samuel L. Boyd

The Bureaucratic Bible: Colonial Administration, Language Contact, and the Construction of Identity in ancient Israel and Judah
(currently editing six out of projected seven chapters; publisher to be sought in 2017)

Edited Volumes

On the editorial committee for the Oxford Handbook for the Study of Origins (Oxford University Press has invited the Center for the Study of Origins at the University of Colorado Boulder,

Fall 2017      “Deuteronomy’s Prodigal Son: Deut 21:18-21 and the Agenda of the D Source,”
Zeitschrift für die alttestamentliche Wissenschaft

Invited Book Reviews

2016            Text, Time, and Temple: Literary, Historical and Ritual Studies in Leviticus, eds.,

Fall 2015	Regional Scholar Award (awarded on a national competition to two emerging biblical scholars)
Fall 2013-Spring 2014	University of Chicago, Chicago Center for Jewish Studies Dissertation Year Fellowship
Fall 2012-Spring 2014	University of Chicago, Martin Marty Junior Dissertation Fellowship 2012-2013 (Divinity School)
Summer 2010	Ryerson Travel Grant, Summer 2010 (Classical Archaeology)
2007-2014	University of Chicago, Cross/Rantz Scholar 2007-2014 (Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations)

November 2017	Society of Biblical Literature annual conference, “Revisiting Royal Rhetoric and Fractured Politics in Sargon II's Dûr-Sharrukîn Cylinder Inscription and Gen 11,” in the session on Genesis
---------------	--

November 2017	Society of Biblical Literature annual conference, “Is there a Remnant of Israel in the Book of Amos? Amos 3:12 as a Test-Case and a Connection to Hos 5:14,” in the session on Israelite Prophetic Literature
---------------	---

October 2017	Thirtieth Annual Symposium on Jewish Civilization. Conference theme:
--------------	--

Teaching and Advising

Fall 2016                      Executive Committee

Spring 2016-pres.          Regional Society of Biblical Literature/American Academy of Religion